1.2 Solution to easy chess puzzle 0001

At this puzzle, next move is by black. The objective of the puzzle is to capture the Queen at a8.

The queen is in the line of attack by the battery of Rooks. Capturing the queen by the rook from e8 to a8 (Rxa8) will result in the following board position.

Now obviously, the white rook at a1 will capture black rook at a8.

1.2 Solution to easy chess puzzle 0007

At this puzzle, next move is by white. The objective of the puzzle is to gain a piece. The piece can be either a knight or a rook.

You have one option to gain a piece

1. You can capture the knight at f4. Your knight may be captured back. However, you will have advantage if your knight is captured.
2. If your knight is captured by the pawn at e5, the right running diagonal along the white squares from c3 is open. Now the bishop at c3 can capture the rook at h8 since it is not supported.

3. The pawn at e5 was shielding the rook. Since the pawn moved, the rook is exposed. Losing your knight in this fashion is called deflection sacrifice.
4. If the pawn does not capture your knight, you can move your knight back to the previous square.

1.2 Solution to easy chess puzzle 0009

At this puzzle, next move is by White. The objective of the puzzle is to prevent checkmate in one move. The only piece that is threatening to give a checkmate is the black pawn at g2. If this pawn advances to g1, then it can be promoted to a piece of their choice. The choice could be among a queen, rook, knight or bishop. If the pawn is promoted to a queen or a rook, it can give a check to your king.

You have several options to avoid the check mate. Your king at present is in a position to fall in a back rank mate.

1. Move your king to c1, so that it can move to the second rank while under attack in the next move.
2. Move any pawns at a, b or c file so that the king will have a square to move when it is under attack in the next move.
